GIPS Newsletter: December 2008

GIPS Standards Conference and Workshop

In less than one month, the GIPS Executive Committee will release a draft version of the next GIPS standards for public comment. How will the proposed changes impact your firm? How will compliance be affected?

The European GIPS Standards Conference will offer answers to these questions and many more when it convenes on 11-12 February 2009 in London. This two-day event will offer attendees an important first look at the draft and will allow for interactive discussion and comment on the implications of the proposed changes.

As an attendee of a 2008 GIPS Standards event, we would like to offer you or colleagues you refer a £100 discount to this landmark event. Interested parties may use the promotional code GIPS-093 for the applicable discount prior to 15 January 2009.

For more information or to register, please visit the conference website or email programs@cfainstitute.org